Karoly Law Firm, LLC has modified its operating procedures since mid-March given the Covid-19 pandemic. As an essential business, we have been striving to maximize client interaction and serve our clients effectively, while simultaneously minimizing client and community health risks. Our commitment to this balance remains.

Governor Wolf recently announced that the Commonwealth would be moving into a new phase of the pandemic response, allowing certain counties to “re-open” under specific state and federal guidelines. Lehigh County, where our office is located, will be designated a “yellow county” on June 5, 2020. Further, as of June 1, 2020, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ordered that attorneys and staff are now permitted to access our physical offices to satisfy our professional obligations, provided we take appropriate measures to protect the safety of our employees and the public.

In light of these developments, Karoly Law Firm will increase our physical availability in our office beginning June 8, 2020. In-person contact will continue to be limited to essential meetings, and we will continue to take all necessary steps to conduct business via advanced communication technologies where possible. All in-person contact will follow CDC and state guidelines, including wearing masks, social distancing and providing sanitation stations. The wellbeing of our clients and community is our main concern, and we will continue to modify our office procedures while still serving our clients at the level they have come to expect.

If you are an existing client and have not received an update on your case, kindly contact us in light of the foregoing state orders. Should you have a new legal matter you wish to discuss with our office, we will make whatever reasonable accommodations necessary to service your needs.

Thank you for your understanding and cooperation during this difficult time. Stay safe!
